

INDIRECT COST STATEMENT: The National Cattlemen's Beef Association is a non-profit organization that helps to finance nutrition, sustainability, beef safety, and product quality/meat science research programs by giving Checkoff-funded grants-in-aid to qualified scientists in order to enhance the profit potential for beef/beef products. The National Cattlemen's Beef Association is aware that academic institutions have financial obligations for administering the research grants that are awarded to their faculty members. However, with funds that are made available for research, overhead costs, tuition, principal investigator salaries, and equipment purchases will not be considered. Consideration of other support staff salaries will be dependent on budget, justification, as well as nature and scope of the work. A portion of time and salary may be considered dependent on others participating in the project.

PUBLICATION COST STATEMENT: Publication of all research is expected regardless of outcome, however financial support for manuscript publication is considered separate from research contracts. Once your project is completed and final report is submitted, please reach out to NCBA staff to receive more information on the new publishing guidance.
